AMBASSADOR PROGRAMS

2nd Annual Scholarship Awards

Friday, July 27, 2018

God is the center of our Universe.

Without him, none of us would be here in this world, and in this world, without him as the Center in our lives, we would be without hope.

The Work of Jamaica Ambassador Programs was birth from a Spiritual Awakening. The path and purpose is a Divine conviction that God will make a way despite the lack, to bring hope to children, that they can succeed. The power of the greatness of God dwells within them and we, as the adult community comprised of Government, Parents, Educators, Community, Volunteers and Donors must do our part. We are all ONE global village.

AMBASSADOR PROGRAMS

Paul Aikens is a successful Jamaican born Businessman now residing in the United States with his family and who works for one of the largest American Fortune 100 companies. He migrated to the United States after completing third form at Kingston College in 1979. Mr. Aikens completed his high school education in the US and completed his secondary educational at State University of New York New Paltz. He earned his advanced Masters in Business Administration at Dowling College in New York. Mr. Aikens believes because of his experience both through his life in Jamaica and abroad that while we will all experience challenges in our lives he is encouraged that these challenges can be successfully met and abated through the necessary catalyst, education, supplemented by participation in sports. One of those challenges is a child without the resources to learn. As a result, he established the CoMPASS Award to assist students and provide some resources to infuse hope thereby increasing that child's capacity to continue learning, expanding their horizon and creating a successful future.
